

Sign Petitions For Candidates

Petitions are being circulated requesting two names be placed on the June 23 ballots for two additional city commissioners in the event the proposed charter is adopted at the election.

Named in the petitions are John A. Williams and Delbert Lowes. The election for the additional commissioners will be held at the same time as the charter election, so that they may begin serving as quickly as possible.

Petitions requesting placement on the ballot must be received at least 30 days before the election in order to allow the names to be printed on the ballots before absentee voting begins. Absentee voting begins 20 days before an election.

The charter will be printed and distributed to eligible voters next week. City employees are compiling an address list of eligible voters. Those eligible to vote in the charter election are residents of Canyon who have valid poll tax receipts or are eligible for exemptions.

The Chamber of Commerce is planning a Town Hall meeting to help explain the provisions of the charter on June 16. Time and place of the meeting will be announced later.

Explorer Scouts Explore Industry In Six-Months Program on Oil

A six-months program of lectures and field trips covering all phases of the petroleum industry has been started by Canyon Explorer Post 66.

Fifteen guest lecturers will appear before the group, and six field trips have been planned. Lectures will be accompanied by technical and illustrative movies.

The "Operation Oil" program is designed to compete for a $1000 award offered by Sears-Roebuck Foundation for the best Explorer Scout program in Boy Scout Region 9, including Oklahoma and Texas.

Purpose of the program is for career selection and preparation through study of the wide range of occupations represented in the complex petroleum industry.

Clark de Schweinitz, chairman of the program for the post, said that seldom has there been presented in the area such a comprehensive program of general appeal to high school and college students and adults. All are invited to attend the series of lectures, which will be announced individually in the Canyon News and at the schools.

The next program will be May 19, and is entitled "Wanted: Oil Leases," Clyde Parker, district land man of the Cities Service Oil Company will be the speaker. His talk will show how lease men are public relations experts, traders, lawyers and businessmen all wrapped in one. Theirs is the job of getting the lease so that a well can be drilled.

Two programs have already been presented. Paul Horn, senior geologist of the Sun Oil Company, told of the location of oil and gas accumulations. Floyd V. Studer, curator of archeology of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum and amateur geologist, conducted a field trip in Palo Duro Canyon to show geological formations.

"Operation Oil" was chosen as a potential prize-winning program because the petroleum industry presents more career possibilities than any other industry offering a like opportunity for investigation in the Texas Panhandle.

Folk Services Slated Today

Funeral services for Henry Harry Folk are scheduled for 2 p. m. today in the First Methodist Church.

Officiating will be the Rev. Doyle Ragle, pastor, assisted by Charles Pierce, pastor of the Wayside Church.

Pallbearers will be John Bewley, L. S. Johnston, Archie Davis, Luther Wesley, W. J. White and Woodrow Wesley. Burial in the Wayside Cemetery will be under the direction of Warren-LaGrone Funeral Chapel.

Mr. Folk, 53, was killed early Monday morning when his pickup truck was struck by a Santa Fe freight train at the west Fourth Avenue crossing. He reportedly stopped or stalled his pickup on the tracks when he heard the train's whistle. The truck was dragged about 300 feet.

On an Amarillo to Slaton run, the freight was damaged slightly and delayed about an hour and a half.

Survivors include his wife, Katie of Canyon; a son, Lawrence of Lubbock; a daughter, Mrs. Kathleen Head of Carlsbad, N. M., a brother, Lewis of Seminole; a sister, Mrs. Bernice Wesley of Amarillo; and six grandchildren.

GARDEN CLUB TO HEAR ILLUSTRATED TALK ON IRIS

The Canyon Garden Club will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the film room of the college library. A fine program on iris will be presented by the program chairman, Mrs. Bill Downing. Special colored slides were received for this program, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Banquet Speaker Visits

Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer visits with members of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society after the annual banquet Friday night in the WT cafeteria.

Historical Society Names Amarillo Man as President for Coming Year

Ernest R. Archembeau of Amarillo was elected president of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society for the coming year at the 38th annual membership meeting Friday afternoon in the PPHS Museum. He succeeds Frank Shaller of Canadian.

Other officers elected are C. P. Buckler of Pampa, first vice president; George M. Autry of Amarillo, second vice president; Dr. Hattie M. Anderson of Canyon, recording secretary; and C. Boone McClure, executive secretary and treasurer.

Four new members of the board of directors are John Powell of Dumas, John Glenn of Canadian, Newton Crain and Dr. Lowell Harrison, both of Canyon.

In reports to the membership, the work of the society during the past year was detailed.

Floyd V. Studer of Amarillo said 68 new members were enrolled during the year, 14 of which were Christmas gifts. He said seven were student memberships, a new classification.

Buckler announced a gift of $300 from the Panhandle Geological Society, which is being used to pay a student, Bill Henderson, to reconstruct the skeleton of a peccary.

A report from Harold Bugbee of Clarendon, curator of art, listed donations for the year, including those from Mrs. H. S. Griffin of Wichita Falls, Louis Neugebauer of Amarillo, Arleigh Huff of Boerne, and George Autry of Amarillo.

Dr. Anderson listed acquisitions to the museum archives, including a memorial shelf in honor of Mrs. Nita Stewart Haley of Canyon. She said the city directories of Dumas are being given the museum by V. S. Cassel of the Hudspeth Directory Company and the Dumas Chamber of Commerce.

She also told of microfilms being given of area newspapers and of the gift of 20 Amarillo Fat Stock

Cancer Crusade Working for Goal

About three-fourths of the Randall County quota for the Cancer Crusade has been collected, and the campaign is continuing to reach the goal of $1900.

Anyone who might have been missed during the canvass may contribute by sending money to Tom Langston, Crusade Chairman, or James Cole, treasurer.

Joyce Ricketts Is FFA Sweetheart

Joyce Ricketts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Ricketts, was elected Sweetheart of Area 1, Future Farmers of America at the FFA annual convention held in Amarillo Saturday.

Joyce is a senior in Canyon High School and has been a member of the Future Homemakers of America for three years.

Show annual publications.

Resolutions were adopted in memory of Dr. W. Purviance of Pampa, Charles R. Burrow of Canyon, Bishop Laurence T. FitzSimon of Amarillo, Mrs. Nita Stewart Haley of Canyon and W. T. Coble of Amarillo.

McClure reported that the shortage of space has forced the museum to delay or refuse a number of items that people wish to donate. The items range in size from a log cabin to bound volumes of the Dallas Morning News since the early 1900's.

Children's Books To Be Displayed

Six hundred new and recent books will be on display at the West Texas State College library Monday in the curriculum laboratory.

This collection of library books breaks down into 31 subject categories and covers all grades from kindergarten through high school. The exhibit is open daily and will be held through June 13.

The exhibit comes from, and is sponsored by, Books on Exhibit, a national service operation involving the country's leading publishers of children's books.

Its purpose is to provide teachers and librarians an opportunity to examine the new library books with a minimum expenditure of time and effort.

'Pops' Concert Slated Tuesday

A spring "pops" concert by the Canyon High School choir and band is slated for 8 p. m. next Tuesday in the all-purpose room of Canyon Elementary School.

This is the first of this type of concert, called "pops" because the music is of a light or popular nature.

Admission is 25 cents for students and 50 cents for adults. Tickets may be obtained from any band or choir member.

Gene Murray is choir director and Herman W. Demus is band director.

Numbers by the choir include "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes" and "Way Over Jordan" both by Cain; "Rain and the River" by Fox; "Buggy Ride" by Bell, and "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning" by Rodgers.

Band numbers will be "Colonel Bogey March" by Alford, "Harlem Nocturne" by Hagen, "In a Clock Store" by Vitto, "Theme from 'Zorro,'" by Bruns, "Mamboanga" by Walters, and "Badinage for Brass" by Walters.

Murray and Demus will each conduct a combined number. Selections are "You'll Never Walk Alone" from "Carousel" by Rodgers and "Joshua" arranged by Yoder.

County Sets Same Tax Rate

Randall County's total tax rate for 1959 will remain the same as for 1958, the commissioners court decided Monday. The total will be 95 cents for the constitutional funds, 25 cents for the right of way sinking fund and 30 cents for the county special fund, for a total of $1.50 per hundred dollar valuation.

The tax rate for 1958 was 90 cents for the constitutional funds, 30 cents for the sinking fund and 30 cents for the county special fund. County Auditor E. T. Cummings said the sinking fund levy could be cut five cents for the coming year, and the commissioners decided to add the nickel to the road and bridge fund to take care of right of way warrants that will begin to come due in 1961.

By funds, the levy will be three cents for jury, 27 cents for courthouse and jail, 50 cents for general and 15 cents for road and bridge. Most taxpayers in the county will have a rate of $1.20. The county special tax of 30 cents is levied only on property owned above the homestead exemption. The money goes to the road and bridge fund.

Cummings said the estimated taxable valuation for the county is $32 million. Last year it was $29 million.

The court authorized $100,000 in warrants to purchase expressway right of way. The warrants will be refunded into 10-year bonds after they are issued, and the bonds will be repaid from the road and bridge funds. The warrant issue is being handled by Municipal Securities. Bob Davis of Amarillo is the representative of the company.

The court was sworn in as a board of equalization, and will begin sitting in the near future to equalize county tax valuations. The court has not set the date for public hearings of the equalization board.

Award to Mayor

Charles Donnell, mayor of Canyon and manager of the Olympic and Varsity Theaters, received a certificate of merit from Mrs. Thornton Dewey, president of the Randall County Heart Association, for the cartoon carnival staged during the heart campaign here. A representative of the state association said the idea is being copied in other areas.

Heart Board Okays Scholarships For CHS, WT Science Students

Two $100 scholarships for science students will be provided by the Randall County Heart Association, the board decided last week.

One scholarship will be provided for a student, or prospective student, at West Texas State and the other will go to a Canyon High School student and may be used at any college.

Mrs. T. G. Dewey, president of the county board, announced that the WT scholarship will go to Sondra Hines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Hines and a senior in Canyon High School. Miss Hines was selected by the scholarship committee at WT.

The board announced that a total of almost $1100 was collected during the Heart Drive in Randall County. The board set a budget for the coming year.

Of the money collected, 25 per cent goes to the national association, 15 per cent to the Texas Heart Association and 20 per cent to the North Plains District Heart Association. The county association will have $440 for the next year's work.

The board voted to provide the two $100 scholarships, and to send $100 to a research project being medical school. The project is designed to cut the number of pints of fresh blood needed by people undergoing surgery using a heart-lung machine.

Donald de Rosen, a representative of the state association, said that about 12 pints of fresh blood are needed now during an operation. The research is an attempt to re-design the machine so that only two pints of blood will be needed.

De Rosen said that a total of $1600 is needed to finance the project and a number of county chapters are providing grants of $100 to $250.

In the budget adopted by the board here, $140 will be retained in the local treasury to finance operations for the next year and to handle any expenses for the drive next year.

The winner of the Canyon High School scholarship will be announced later, Mrs. Dewey told the board.

Board members present were Mrs. Dewey, Patsy Evers, secretary, Mrs. Mona Hildreth, Dr. J. Manley Bryan, Jerry LaGrone and H. R. Fulton Jr.

Mrs. Dewey also announced that Dr. Bryan had been elected president of the North Plains District Heart Association. Mrs. Dewey is secretary of the district group.

General Details Foreign Aid Ideas

(The following is the text of Gen. Albert Wedemeyer's speech at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society banquet. In the interest of utilizing space, introductory remarks have been edited. — The Editor)

"... I am happy to have fellow Americans differ with the views I express, because my views, and your views, I am confident, have in mind, we have in mind the same objective. We want to perpetuate our American heritage.

"And as I visualize our heritage, it's simply this, we want to enable our children and our grandchildren to enjoy the same opportunities that we had to worship as we wished, to be governed as we wished, to be governed, to work for whom and under circumstances and conditions of our choosing, to be rewarded for our work commensurately. If we work hard, if we have ingenuity, we expect reward. Now, that in my judgment, is our great American heritage, and finally on the subject I am going to cover, in a little while, in the international field. I think most Americans want to cooperate with other countries. But most Americans do not want other countries to meddle in our affairs, and neither do we want to meddle in their affairs.

"... Now most of the problems that confront us are domestic problems. The exorbitant taxes that you and I experience and then the gradual concentration of power in Washington, and even child delinquency and, oh, there are numerous problems on the home front that concern you and me. But I should like to suggest that most of our problems on the home front, in the domestic senses, are created by the international situation.

"We're terribly concerned about our security, our military security, and furthermore, rightfully, we are greatly concerned about our economic stability. And this is primarily due to this force known as Communism which is being aggressively pushed out all over the world and threatening our peace and our American heritage.

"Therefore, rather than to discuss in detail the domestic problems, I'd like to share with you a few ideas concerning the international situation.

"There's one thought that I had in sharing these ideas with you. I feel like I speak your language, coming from the south or middle west as you do. You are not isolationists as is often stated in the press in the east. People in Texas, people in Nebraska, people in the midwest are isolationists they say. We're not isolationists. I think we are hard-headed realists.

"We don't like to see our manpower scattered all over the world unless it is serving a definite purpose, unless it is contributing really to our security. We have several million men under arms, but I ask you, how many men we could concentrate for a real blow at this enemy?

"We are expending billions of dollars, and we are being asked to expend 3.9 billion more this year to bolster economies and the military forces of some of our so-called friends. And problems like that have caused me no end of concern and I am sure they do you.

"... Now I should like to review very quickly a little bit of our history, just a little bit, because it is related to what I would like to say to you on our foreign policy, the action in the international arena, the policy and actions we have taken in my time, since my mature years anyway.

"When the country was coming into being and our early settlers came here they rapidly created the cities and great farms and cleared the woods away. They made this nation a great nation industrially. We had what we know as the industrial revolution in this country in the 19th century. We were independent, though, economically. We didn't have to go to far-flung places for critical items—molybdenum, chromium, magnesium and things like that.

"We had all the things for a healthy economy right here, and our industries just flourished. Now then, militarily, we had two vast water expanses to the east and to the west of our country, polar wastes to the north and jungles to the south. So militarily we were secure.

"And again, we had no dependence on allies or friends abroad. Gradually we began to have more intercourse with these people. We traded increasingly, but it was a gradual process. Our cultural background had its beginning, of course, in England, in Germany, and France, Italy and so forth. But that's so much for the early days of this country.

"And I say that the period from 1900 to 1910, those years might be called the golden decade of our country. And I'm a little worried, like Gibbon when he wrote 'The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire,' I'm wondering if we are not beginning to go down hill now.

"We went into World War I to make the world safe for democracy and we went into World War II to protect the four freedoms—very nebulous objectives. Objectives that a war planner, like myself, we couldn't fight a war for those kind of objectives. We had to have something concrete, but I'll come to that in a minute.

"But there are definite compulsions now that require you and me and all Americans to take increasing interest in what is going on every place in the world. Economically, we are no longer completely independent. Now we could get along, ladies and gentlemen, without trading with other countries, but it would be at a lower standard of living.

"... Economically then, we do reach out and we go to far-flung places for raw materials to be integrated into our economy. Those raw materials are processed here and we have manufactured goods which we send abroad to foreign markets, making for export-import healthy economy. Now then, militarily, we are no longer secure. These vast oceans and this barrier up to the north that I mentioned

It's Been Happening All Along

Why, at this late date, is there such a hue and cry about the Supreme Court ruling that a health inspector can disregard the Constitution to make an inspection of a private home without a search warrant?

The ruling is only a logical extension of things we have done in the name of "health." And we've been at those things only it's been called progress, and that makes it all right.

Article I, Section 9, Paragraph 3 of the Constitution says: "No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed." That means, in the ex post facto part, that no law will be passed that will punish anyone for doing or not doing something the law requires at any time before the law is passed.

When a city puts in a zoning ordinance, is passed comply with the zoning nance, it cannot require that buildings constructed before the ordinance is passed comply with the zoning regulations. If it did, the ordinance would be an "ex post facto" law.

But when a city passes a health ordinance, it can require compliance of everyone, and we call it progress. For an instance. If a city puts in a sewer system, it can require that all houses tie on to the system and it can penalize those homeowners who don't tie on. The homeowners can jolly well forget about their previously constructed septic tanks or cess pools, the city must be healthy.

A law cannot be passed that penalizes one person or group to the exclusion of others. That's a constitutional provision.

But, it can be done. Yes sirree. Suppose a city commissioner's neighbor is keeping horses, and the commissioner doesn't like it. The city can pass an ordinance prohibiting the keeping of horses inside the city limits.

That takes care of everyone who is keeping horses, but the commissioner doesn't care about the rest of the horses—just those next door to him. So the city commission writes a section in the ordinance that allows a permit to be issued to keep horses if it's not a threat to health.

Everyone who keeps horses applies for a permit, and permits are issued to everyone but the commissioner's neighbor. The law ends up being a penalty for one person only, but it's in the name of "health," so it's all right.

It's generally considered that government shall not extend beyond boundaries. A city does not govern outside city limits, a county outside the county, a state outside the state, and so on.

But in the name of "health," what do we do? A city, in certain circumstances, can define and control health nuisances to within one mile outside the city limits. People outside the city limits can't be taxed or given representation on the city commission, but they can be governed by the city in the name of "health."

A city can pass an ordinance requiring that all producers of milk (or meat or poultry or whatever) must be inspected to insure that the milk coming into the city is pure and wholesome. The ordinance is designed to protect the public health—the health of the people in the city. And the city can turn around and make the producer pay for the inspection, even though the city is requiring the inspection and not the producer. The argument is that the "Grade A" seal of approval is valuable to the producer. But the approval is valuable only because the city requires the approval. That's all right though, because it is in the name of "health."

The public health cannot be so important that it steals away the basic and necessary freedom from unwarranted search and seizure. But why censure the Supreme Court for ruling the way it did, when we in our local governments disregard equally basic and necessary freedoms?

Our Governor

Having discovered that the legislature is not going to pass the tax provisions he submitted back in January, Pipsqueak Price has announced he will submit the same provisions at the special session he has called for May 18.

Our Price called the session to begin one week after the regular session ends. It is estimated that it costs $30,000 in travel money to call the legislature into special session — but the travel money does not have to be paid if the special session is called to begin immediately after the end of the regular session. We're $60-odd million in the hole, and Our Price spends another $30,000.

Bah!

Our Legislature

Wagoner Carr, speaker of the house, said Saturday in Amarillo that he wanted to defend the legislature against charges of "do-nothing." He said the legislature has done lots of spade work, and it will probably be able to pass the tax and appropriation bills during one 30-day special session.

The legislature's number one duty is to decide how much the state is going to spend and how to get the money. That's what it should do during the regular session. If it does not, then it hasn't done its duty.

This legislature has not done its duty. It's done any number of other things, but it hasn't done what it was supposed to do. We think that makes this legislature a "do-nothing" legislature.

Bah!

Our Senator

Senator Lyndon Johnson has been reported as wanting the primary elections changed so he can run for senator and for the presidency in 1960, and the legislature hopped to and fixed up a bill. Pipsqueak Price wanted to go along with the deal, but wanted some other things in it and so on.

The bill is, in our opinion, in direct opposition to the will of the people of the state. Last fall we passed a constitutional amendment that requires any office holder from the district level to the precinct level to resign from his office before running for another office. Probably we would have voted in the amendment if it had included all public office holders.

But lovable Lyndon wants it, so our representatives lay down and let him have it.

Bah!

What Our Neighbors Say ...

Scissor Snippings

A. M. Jackson in the Slaton Slatonite: Last week when I made a trip to the bank with a very light load I happened to be standing between Robert Huser and Otis Neil at the window.

Both of them seemed to be heavily bogged down with checks and cash and when they got relieved, J. S. Edwards Jr. walked over and invited them to have some coffee and asked if I would not like to go along too. He led us through a secret passage to the back of the building and in a big, spacious room fitted out with what looked like a banquet table, sat about 10 or 12 women drinking coffee, cokes and nibbling on doughnuts and brownies. It was, I presume, the extra shift that is hired to eat while the regular shift scoops in the money.

At a private coffee bar, J. S., Howard Swanner and several other men were gulping down coffee, cakes and cookies and Otis, Robert and I joined the merry throng. How long this has been going on I have no idea. My idea of was that the back rooms of the bank were filled with stacks of greenbacks and loose change. According to my picture, the bills were in neat order like cord wood and the coins in big buckets, nickels in one, dimes in another, etc.

From my inspection I am sure it will not be long before you can identify a bank employee, or a good customer of the institution, by their over-sized figure, in fact it is showing now on J. S. and T. A. Worley and if they don't watch out you won't be able to tell whether they are standing up or sitting down.

It used to be that one faced the banker with fear and trembling, and even hesitated to ask for the money that was on deposit to your name and I still classify the bank along with a dentist's office, but there is a suspicion of change and it may be that such things as free coffee, doughnuts and cokes may bring the downfall of the guy who gives you the cold eye and district attorney cross examination when you get rash enough to go in and ask for a loan on your insurance policy.

When the bank turns the vaults into a coffee bar, it's a sign that happy days are here and that we might as well quit working and worrying.

Jimmie Gillelentine in the Hereford Brand: It's like I always say, "There are times when a man just can't win." I heard about a fellow who came home one night with a blonde hair on his coat, so his wife beat him up. Next night he came home with a brunette hair on his coat, and she beat him up again. The third night the old boy showed up without anything on his coat—and she beat him up worse than ever.

"It was bad enough when you were running around with blondes and brunettes," declared the irate woman, "but when you start running around with bald headed women that is going too far."

The words that should be left unsaid are too often the ones people like most to hear.

It's a fact that by the time some people make up their minds opportunity has passed them by.

BOYCE HOUSE

Probably very few of the readers of this column have ever heard of Bill Arp. He deserves a kinder fate. He was a Confederate veteran, and became a widely-known humorist after the Civil War. His humor was homespun, human, genuine. He referred to one man as "a sorter of a self-edicated fool." All of us have known such an individual.

On one occasion (so Bill relates) he had a man arrested for shooting Arp's hog. The defense was that it was a wild hog. The jury came in with a verdict, "Because of the scarcity of provisions after the war and the hard time that some men are having in maintaining their families, we find the defendant not guilty but we recommend that he not do so any more."

Bill summed up, "The motto of this case is that a man orn't to keep hogs in a poor neighborhood."

Bill had another experience. A man had agreed to sell him wheat at $1 a bushel, "if he (the seller) couldn't do better." If the man found that he could get a higher price, he was to come back and give Bill the preference. The man sold the wheat to someone else for $1.05.

The parties agreed to let an arbitrator decide. The arbitrator studied the matter for three days and decided that the third man, who had bought the wheat, should have the wheat and that Bill should have the preference.

Such was the course of justice in Georgia in those days—allowing for the comical touches that Bill Arp may have added to the facts.

Out near Big Spring years ago, the sheriff called on a rancher with a foreclosure in his pocket. The cowman told him that a test for oil was about to hit the formation, if there was any formation to hit. So they walked over to the well, the ranchman mournfully humming, "I'm Headin' for the Last Roundup." Hardly had they reached the derrick floor when a column of liquid gold went roaring a hundred feet into the air. The sheriff didn't twirl a long, black mustache (he didn't have one, for one thing) nor did he hiss "Curses," instead, he flung a thirty-dollar Stetson into the slush pit in his enthusiasm.

RAMBLING AROUND

DOYLE G. THOMAS
ASC Office Manager

Bindweed is becoming one of the major problems to farmers and landowners in this area. Not too many years ago, people of this area did not know what it was. We know now that it is something that must be reckoned with. Land infested with this weed will not produce anything. It spreads easily and is very hard to eradicate.

The bad part of it is that it has continued to spread even after we know what it will do. Heretofore, the chemicals that were used to fight it have cost from $200 to $400 per acre to apply. This has been one of the major problems and probably is the primary one for the continued spreading of the plant.

Chemical companies have finally come up with something that will go a long way toward bindweed elimination. This is Chlorobenzoic Acid and it can be applied at a cost of about $100 per acre. This cost is still prohibitive on large acreage, but on smaller plots we think it is well worth the money. Experience has proved that the best way to control this noxious weed is to eliminate it before it spreads.

The agricultural agencies in the county believe that the problem is one of our most serious ones and as a result, a bindweed control practice has been set up in the Agricultural Conservation Program. Under this practice approximately 50 per cent of the cost, or $5 per gallon, will be paid for application of these chemicals. Farmers who have bindweed are encouraged to take the necessary steps to eliminate it. Application for the cost-share assistance must be made before the practice is carried out.

During the past two months we have received numerous inquiries from farmers asking us if the Conservation Reserve Program will be reopened next year. Our answer at the present is that we don't know. Reopening of the program will depend on future actions of the present Congress.

The wheat program is in the same category with the Conservation Reserve Program with one exception. If no new legislation is passed, the program in effect this year will be continued.

Callers at the ASC Office will notice some changes within the next two weeks. The office space is being increased to include that part of the building formerly occupied by R. B. Allen. We think this space will help us to better serve the public.

It takes a black sheep in some families to prove that the others are not white-washed.

CLEAN UP WEEK

Of course, this is clean up week; and TODAY IS PAINT-UP DAY. If you are in the dark, as I usually am, about what color goes with what, you might look at last week's Canyon News. There was an excellent article on "Color Makes the Difference in Living."

If you have already spread that paper out on the floor to catch the paint dripping, I'll tell you the gist of the article: Color is the spice of existence.

What could give a freshly decorated room more lift than a new telephone in color? We have a display of colored telephones in our business office and the girls will be glad to let you take one home to see how it fits with your scheme.

There's only a one-time charge for a colored telephone. You can even pay for it in installments if you'd like.

MAKE IT A "HOLIDAY" WEEKEND WITH A LONG DISTANCE CALL

Last year, many of us had a three-day weekend because Decoration Day fell on Friday, and it'll be the same way next year when it comes on Monday. But this year, the calendar threw us a little curve and Decoration Day lands on Saturday. This cuts out the chance for a three-day holiday, which means there's not enough time for an out-of-town trip to see friends or family.

Since a holiday is a family get-together day, several of my friends have told me they still plan to "get together" with a long distance call over the week-end.

"It's the next best thing to visiting in person," one fellow told me, "and we can make quite a few out-of-town calls for the cost of traveling over the weekend."

It makes sense to me, and I hope many of you will perk up your Decoration Day weekend here in Canyon with a long distance call to friends or family.

As you know, rates are lower after 6 p. m. weekdays and all day Sunday. And when you call, call station-to-station. That way, you'll be able to make three calls for about the price of two. That's a real saving!

IT'S FUN TO PHONE

How often do you use the phone "just for the fun of it?" Have you ever stopped to think how many times a telephone call has been the beginning of a lasting friendship, or a pleasant evening with neighbors?

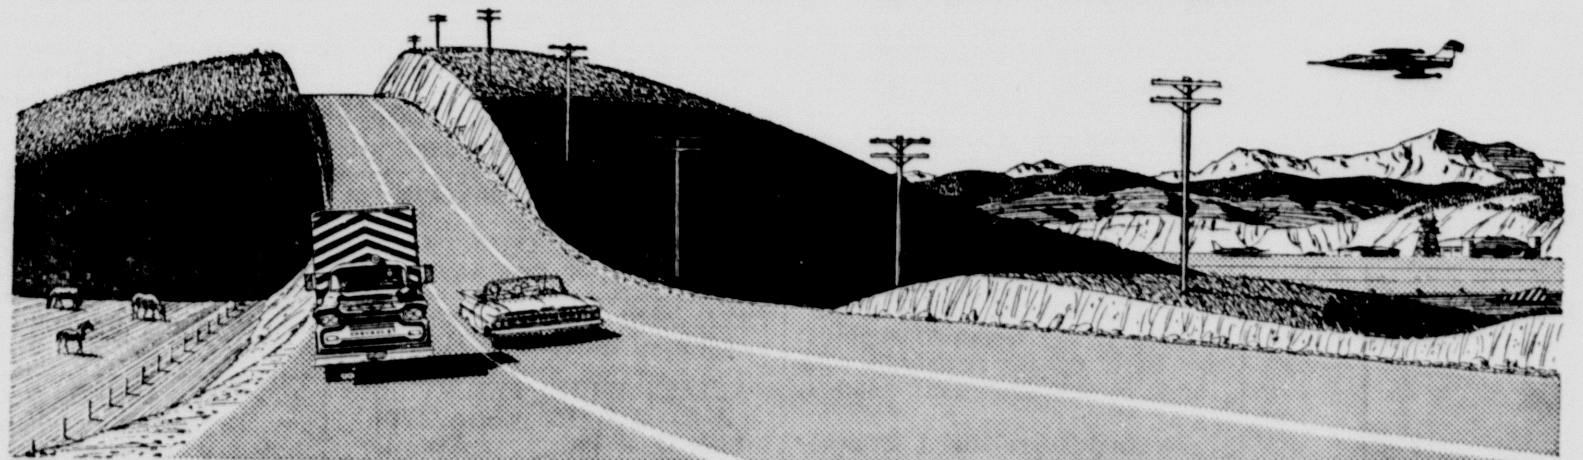

People often tell me of calls they made "just to visit." You've probably done the same. Chances are good you'll do it again.

Why? That's easy. Because it's fun to phone.

Call by number. It's twice as fast.

and the jungles to the south, all of them can be spanned by air power, the airplane.

"... Economically and militarily we cannot be isolationists, even if we wanted to be. Now George Washington in the environment or under the conditions he understood way back when he was president admonished us, do not become involved in entangling alliances, but if he were alive today, I'm sure that he would agree that we are almost compelled to participate economically and militarily in some form of association with other countries.

"If that be true, then let us do it intelligently and in a timely manner in consonance with a plan.

"Now, as Evetts Haley brought out in that very complimentary introduction—I've never been so complimented and didn't deserve it—but anyway, he brought out that I felt that this business of fighting in this insane cycle; every 20 years we go to war, we kill, we destroy, and then we are called upon to do the same thing. Twice in my life that has been the situation. I was taught to hate and to kill the Germans and the Japs. Today I am taught to woo the Germans back and get them on my side, woo the Japanese back.

"I'm asked to pay big taxes so money can be sent over there to rehabilitate their economies and to build up their armies so that we can go and fight a former friend, the Russians. And it just didn't make sense to me in '40, '41, when I was involved in this war planning and it makes less sense to me today.

"... Now I have mentioned the fact that there were no compulsions for us in the early days of our history to take an interest in what was going on—no economic compulsions, no military compulsions. But today there are, and I ask all of you as fellow Americans to really read and discuss developments at home and abroad.

"If it's necessary then to take increased interest in international affairs, I should like to just put out some ideas here concerning our relations with other nations, for your consideration.

"I would stop all this foreign aid and military aid as of now, all of it. (Applause). Maybe those of you who have applauded will withdraw your applause if possible, when I qualify it on this basis. When some country comes to me and they say they want 10 million dollars or 100 million dollars, I ask them, what are you doing to help yourself, number one. Number two, what are you doing to fight Communism, the present enemy of everything I stand for?

"Are you trading with Communists? Are you helping them get stronger so that one day they might destroy America? Or are you really going to make a contribution, a proportionate contribution toward destroying Communism along with us?

"Now if the answer to those questions—let me be concrete. Let me give you some examples. I wouldn't give one sou, I wouldn't give one lota of money or help or anything like that to Tito of Yugoslavia because he is an avowed enemy of everything I stand for. And I don't think that when the chips are down that Tito and his Yugoslav people would be on our side.

"Furthermore, Gromyko in Poland, he's an avowed Communist, so don't help him. Now, I don't understand it either. I can't rationalize, I just can't understand it.

"The enigma to me is how American leadership can continue to dole out millions and millions and millions, yes, even billions of dollars to other countries and yet not have assurance of their help when the chips are down.

"Now that may sound very, very radical. It isn't radical, ladies and gentlemen. I emphasized earlier—and if there is a newspaper reporter present tonight might say, take this out of context, and say, 'General Wedemeyer is opposed to all aid.' I'm not.

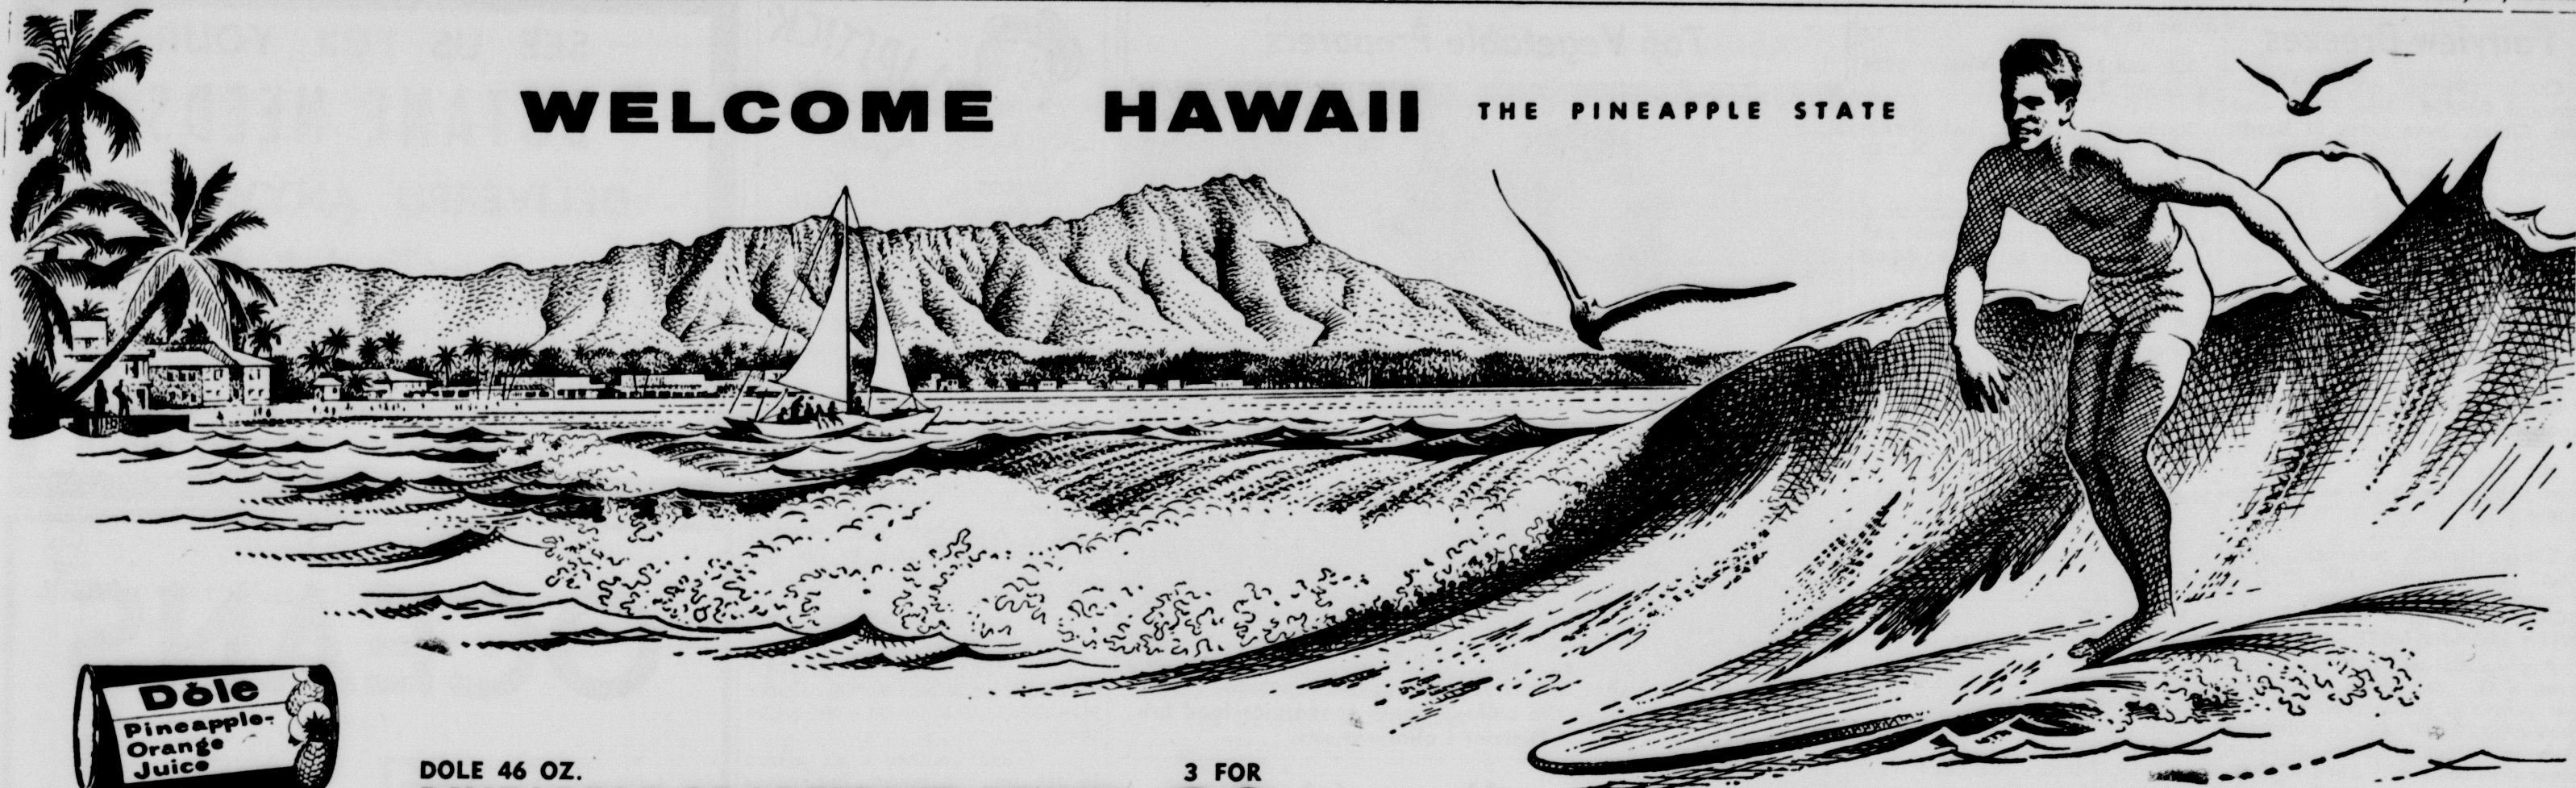

"I say again that I think we should cooperate with other countries, but let's do it on a realistic basis, reciprocal basis. I'm not suggesting that these smaller, less developed countries can contribute as much as we, but they can contribute a proportionate amount.

"... And that's all I'm asking, that our leaders demand of other countries a proportionate contribution. Let's jump into France right now, into NATO. In the NATO countries—there are 15 of them. I put it this way, in the western countries outside the iron curtain in Europe there are 200 million people. In other words, more people than there are in the United States, and yet, if they are in earnest about stopping Communism in Europe, why don't they provide the manpower? Provide the soldier and so forth to stop a possible threat by the Soviet Union. The Soviet Union is alleged to have 175 divisions, and thousands of airplanes just over the iron curtain.

"Now why shouldn't the Western European countries, supplemented by our own help, make a greater contribution? They don't do it because we just don't demand it of them. If someone else will do it for you, then why not? Why not let Uncle Sam do it?

"If this really resulted in friendship, in friends abroad, I would be for it. But I continually get reports from abroad. They report to me, 'We Americans are hated abroad in continental Europe, we are regarded with suspicion in Africa and the Middle East.' And yet we have doled out billions of dollars to help these people recover.

"They have recovered economically. Their economies... are higher today than they were before World War II, and you American taxpayers made that possible. And that's well and good. I'm happy that we did.

Why is it...

THAT a woman cries when she's happy, a man yells at a loved one who has a near accident, and a youngster gets defiant when he feels disapproval?

THAT we do a slow burn when someone embarrasses us, or seems unjust, then take it out on the next fellow we meet instead of going back and walloping the one who deserves it?

THAT some folks think it's fun to follow a golf ball in the hot sun for half a day, to sit at a bridge table five hours in a row, or to get covered with grease working on an old car?

THAT one woman can't afford a new dress, but buys dozens of useless objects to place on a collection shelf.

...and another can't afford to fix up her house, but never misses a weekend junket with friends for a club convention, shopping excursion or flower show?

THAT the other fellow's faults are so much easier to diagnose than our own?

THAT we're more likely to show gratitude to the casual stranger for an unexpected courtesy than to a close friend, business associate, or family member whose goodness and loyalty smooth out the wrinkles in every day?

THAT women are so sensible about their children's clothes, yet risk their own lives daily on pinpoint heels?

THAT all people don't like the same colors, cars, resort spots, furniture, and pets?

THAT the sweetest experiences are those brewed from both sunshine and shadow, love and anger, giving and taking — not just the sweetness alone?

What's human nature, anyhow?

Washington Report— Battle of Antietam

By Representative Walter Rogers
18th Congressional District

The Battle of Antietam is the cause of a controversial issue now pending in the Congress. The Department of the Interior wants to expand its present holdings in the battlefield site area from 283 acres to approximately 1800 acres. This will involve over-all expenditures of approximately $2 million.

The Department argues that the need to expand the Federally owned area is caused by the threats on the part of land-owners in the area to erect hot dog stands and other structures along the highways. It says this will block the view of the battlefield and the people should not be allowed to erect such structures under the circumstances, and also argues that the only way this can be prevented is for the Federal government to buy the land and thereby prevent the desecration of hallowed soil by commercial activities.

The land has been under the plow for many years, and it is the general opinion of those seeking to gain the 1800 acres that it could be continued in cultivation under lease or other agreements between the Federal government and the present land-owners. In other words, the government proposes to develop this land at the approximate price quoted and then return it to the people to be used only in accordance with the dictates of the Federal government.

During the hearings, I raised a question as to who won the Battle of Antietam. This caused some furor, because we have both Rebels and Yankees on the Interior Committee. The result of the discussion was that no one seemed to know who won the battle.

The South had 41,000 men under General Robert E. Lee. The North had 87,000 men under General George B. McClellan. The statistics reflect that the Federals lost 12,410 men, while the Confederates lost 10,700 men.

If victory depends upon who lost the most men, we could conclude that the South won the battle.

Individual Winner

Lucy Tucek was first place winner in the District I 4-H foods individual contest, held in the Southwestern Public Service building.

However, when we use percentages we find that the Federals lost only 15 percent, while the Confederates lost 26 percent. Eight generals were lost in the battle, but these were evenly divided, four on each side.

The history writers say that if Lee had won a decisive victory, it would have resulted in the independence of the Confederacy. This would indicate that Lee won the victory, but it was not decisive. Yet, on the other hand, the same history writers say that if McClellan had been able to achieve a decisive victory, the war would have been concluded in a few short months.

The battle took place on Sept. 17, 1862, approximately three years before the end of the war. Many other facts and opinions concerning the battle could be cited, but it is generally conceded the battle was somewhat close to a draw.

The taxpayers would be most fortunate if they could come out as well as either Lee or McClellan; however, their chances are not too good. It looks as though they will lose the modern Battle of Antietam to the tune of about two million tax dollars. Which brings to mind another situation of a few years back: the restoration of The Old Stone House in Georgetown, which has cost the taxpayers upwards of $300,000 to date, and to which no history has yet been tied, except the age of the stones that were in the original structure, many of which have been replaced.

To add insult to injury, a brand new ultra-modern telephone has been erected in front of the structure, encased in an ultra-modern plastic bubble, which is as detracting of "The Old Stone House" as a fly in a dish of ice cream. This is all very nice, and probably kept many people busy working on trying to tie some event of history to this structure, as well as re-making the structure itself, but in the final analysis it adds up to the conclusion that the taxpayers now have in historic Georgetown a $300,000 rest room with telephone conveniences.

And you wonder why Federal spending is reaching such heights.

Acre originally meant the amount of land one man could plough in a day.

Some cities spend money to abolish their slums — others spend a much greater amount dealing with the results.

Married May 1

MRS. JOHN HARDIN

Griffin-Hardin Vows Solemnized In Ceremony at Parents' Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Griffin was the scene of the marriage of their daughter, Juanita, to John Hardin, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Hardin of Owensboro, Ky., May 1, at 7:30 p. m.

The Rev. Howard Eason of the Primitive Baptist Church of Amarillo read the double ring ceremony as the bride and bridegroom stood before a picture window flanked by candleabras holding white tapers.

Candlelighter was Mrs. Lawrence Ward of Canyon, who wore a blue taffeta dress and white accessories.

Mrs. John Welch, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a blue taffeta evening dress with white accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

Best man was Ray Griffin, brother of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white ballerina length formal of nylon lace and net ruffles. Her fingertip length veil was attached to a tiara of pearls and sequins. She wore pink accessories, and carried a white Bible topped by a bouquet of pink orchids tied with pink ribbon streamers.

A reception followed the ceremony.

Laid with white lace over a blue cloth, the serving table was decorated with a centerpiece of blue and white carnations. Mrs. Clay Dawson of Canyon, aunt of the bride, poured the punch, and Mrs. Claude De Vaney of Amarillo, aunt of the bride, served the cake.

Mrs. Weldon Riley registered guests.

For the wedding trip to South Texas and New Mexico, the bride chose pastel yellow linen.

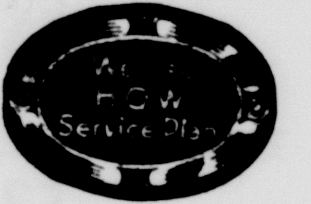

Mrs. Hardin has attended Canyon High School and Amarillo High School and is currently attending Amarillo Secretarial School. The bridegroom was graduated from Owensboro High School and served three years in the U. S. Air Force. He attended Amarillo Business College and is employed at Griffin's Truck Stop.

The couple will be at home at 2418 Tenth Avenue.

Texas Press Association

"They said it couldn't be done. And, sure enough, it couldn't." This is the attitude of many tired lawmakers toward the session-long struggle to raise $200,000,000 in new tax money.

As the regular session drew near to a close, House members, in effect, admitted they couldn't agree on a program that would do the job. House sent to the Senate the scraps of selective sales tax measure (HB 727) and a bill to increase the corporation franchise tax for one year only.

There was off - the cuff talk among House members of someone's proposing at a later date to solve the problem by cutting the appropriation bill across the board to 4 per cent less than the 1958-59 budget. This would bring such violent reaction, it was thought, that both lawmakers and their constituents would be more receptive to new tax proposals.

Senate State Affairs Committee has indicated it has no intention of trying to shove through a tax program just to beat the May 12 deadline of the regular session. Full hearings have been promised for all viewpoints.

Truck Bill Signed — Gov. Price Daniel signed the bill raising the truck load limit from 38,400 to 72,000 pounds.

But he made no bones about his misgivings. He recommended that the State Highway Department and county commissioners courts take steps to keep the heavier loads off farm roads and others that might be damaged.

Before deciding to sign the bill, the governor took an unusual step, by calling a public hearing.

State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer testified there were some 5,000 miles of road that couldn't take 72,000-pound loads. Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Department of Public Safety, said more license and weight inspectors would be needed. Higher registration fees were expected to provide revenue for this.

Seventeen Potential Governors: Sixteen successors to the governor would be designated in a proposed constitutional amendment that has Senate approval.

Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo is sponsoring the measure designed to assure a living chief executive in case of atomic attack.

Line of succession would be the lieutenant governor, president pro tempore of the Senate, Speaker of the House, Attorney General, Secretary of State and the chief justices of the 11 courts of civil appeals in their numerical order.

How Clean the Cow—Sen. Grady Hazlewood's bill to regulate milk imports stirred up more commotion than a short in a milking machine.

Senate passed the bill, and a sub-committee of the House Livestock Committee approved it.

Bill would require that milk brought into Texas from other states meet same standards as those imposed on Texas producers.

Milk producers, who favor the bill, say it will protect consumers from unsanitary milk. Milk producers, who oppose the bill, retort that all states have adequate sanitation standards. They contend the producers are seeking a device for excluding out-of-state milk so local prices can be jacked up.

3 STUDIES SUGGESTED
Senate has approved three studies to be made by the Legislative Council before the 1961 session.

Recommended for consideration are:

1. Possibility of adding the generously endowed University of Houston to the state college system, sponsored by Sen. Robert W. Baker of Houston.

PROCLAMATION BY MAYOR

WHEREAS: The annual sale of Buddy Poppies by The Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States has been officially recognized and endorsed by the President of the United States and Veterans Administration; and

WHEREAS: V.F.W. Buddy Poppies are assembled by disabled veterans, and the proceeds of this worthy fund-raising campaign are used exclusively for the benefit of disabled and needy veterans, and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans; and

WHEREAS: The basic purpose of the annual sale of Buddy Poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars is eloquently reflected in the desire to "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living;" therefore,

I, Charles E. Donnell, Mayor of the City of Canyon, do hereby urge the citizens of this community to recognize the merits of this cause by contributing generously to its support through the purchase of Buddy Poppies, on the day set aside for the distribution of these symbols of loyalty. I urge all patriotic citizens to wear a Buddy Poppy as mute evidence of our gratitude to the men of this country who have risked their lives in defense of the freedoms which we continue to enjoy as American citizens.

(Signed) Charles E. Donnell
Mayor

2. Ways to simplify the tangle of special funds which pay for state government, sponsored by Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo.
3. Special fees charged by state agencies for licensing and other services, by Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro.

SHORT SNORTS

Examinations will be held May 19-21 for 75 vacancies in the Texas Highway Patrol. Those accepted will receive six months training at the State Academy, six months on-the-job training, all with pay. State taxes cannot be collected on beer sold on U. S. military posts, according to an Attorney General's opinion. Similar opinion was made earlier in regard to cigarette taxes.

BREAKDOWN

Worry about today's problems and those that may come tomorrow is too much of a load for any man.

The fellow who is sure he is always right is bound to make more and more mistakes.

Canyon's Eighth Grade Team Sinks Dimmitt 20-12 in Scrimmage Game

A 20-12 victory over Dimmitt's eighth grade closed the second week of spring workouts by Canyon's eighth grade football team. After Dimmitt scored twice in the first half, Canyon came roaring back to score all of its points in the final two quarters.

The first Canyon touchdown came on a 45-yard pass play from quarterback Davis Price to end Gary Lee. The try point after failed.

After recovering a Dimmitt fumble, the future Eagles marched 35 yards for another score, with half-back Harry Lisle circling end for the six points. Lisle drove off tackle for two points to put Canyon ahead 14-12.

Canyon's final tally came after Dimmitt was held on downs. Behind the blocking of Elmer Oberst, Price directed the team into scoring position. Fullback Bill Ashley punched over from the four-yard line for the TD. Outstanding linemen were guard Ronny Brock, center Bobby Dorris and end Bob Cooke.

During the first week of workouts, Canyon defeated the eighth grade team from Happy 24-0 to run the year's string to nine straight wins without a loss, including last fall's record.
